

SHEFFIELD INTERFAITH VISIT TO LAXTON
20TH OCTOBER 2019

I thought it was a remarkable place. The garden was beautiful, with white roses, a huge pile of pebbles and running water. It is amazing that it was set up by 2 brothers with no personal connection to the holocaust. I liked that it made me think about the way we treat each other and how we can be manipulated to drift into cruel behaviour, without dwelling extensively on the extreme horror of the death camps.

I thought that it was a wonderful educational resource, that we should encourage schools in Sheffield to access if possible. I was inspired by how the ethos of the museum was about teaching the next generation the truth about the past.

I found it dark, relentless and challenging - seems a natural response to what we saw. I was struck by the meticulous and microscopic detail of the Nazi oppression.

It is a precious place.

It was a very informative trip.

I was very disturbed and felt weeping to see the atrocities created by Nazi. It has taken away many years of many children's life. It should give lessons to new generation to avoid this happening again and my message is we are all creation of God and we should cherish our life with peace and harmony
